Tetsuo Ogawa, B.A., LL.B., M.A.(Distinction), Ph.D. is Associate Professor of Public Policy, Faculty of Law and Economics, Chiba University, Japan & Research Affiliate, the Centre for Advanced Studies in the Social Sciences (CASSS), University of Oxford, U.K. He is acting as Chair of the Steering Committee (Asia and the Pacific), the European Foundation on Social Quality (EFSQ) in the Netherlands and Deputy Director (International Affairs) of Chiba University 21st Century Centre of Excellence (COE) Programme: the Research Centre on Public Affairs in Japan, and currently working on the review and appraisal of the Madrid International Plan of Action on Ageing under the United Nations Programme on Ageing, United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs to review QOL, social quality and public policies. He is also Special Advisor to the Oxford University Asia-Pacific Society (OUAPS). Before taking up the current position, he worked at the Oxford Institute of Ageing, University of Oxford from 2000 to 2005, and contributed to the Second World Assembly on Ageing, organised by the United Nations and Government of Spain in 2002. His main research interest is in Social Policy and Administration, with particular emphasis on citizens' rights, social exclusion, community development, social solidarity, and social policy development in a globalising world. In 1994/95, he was a British Council Fellow (Social Sciences) selected from Japan, and in 1996 he also contributed to the BBC TV programme "The Coming of Age". His research were funded by the United Nations Research Institute for Social Development, Geneva, Switzerland and the European Commission, Brussels, Belgium. His book and articles are: Conditions for Social Quality in Europe and Related Indicators (forthcoming), Kluwer Law International, The Hague; The Crisis of Welfare in East Asia (2007) Lexington Books, New York and London; Inter-generational Equity and Social Solidarity: Japan's Search for an Integrated Policy on Ageing, in John Doling, Catherine Jones Finer and Tony Maltby (eds)(2005), Ageing Matters: European Policy Lessons from the East, Ashgate Books: London and New York, funded by the European Commission 5th Framework Programme; Ageing in Japan: An Issue of Social Contract in Welfare Transfer or Generational Conflict?, Lloyd-Sherlock, P.(ed.) (2004) Living Longer: Ageing, Development and Social Protection, UNRISD and Zed Books: London and New York.